The "Societe des Instruments Anciens," of which Henri Casadesus is the founder and Camille Saint Saens is President, made a first ap-pearance in America at a concert at Sherry's last night. In the quartet of violins used in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, which the society has taken pains to find out and gather, Mr. Casadesus has associated with him Maurice Hewitt, Eugene Dubruille and Maurice Devrilliers. A favorite practice in those days was to include the harpsichord in performances, and this instrument last night was played by Regina Patorni. Solos of the period were sung by Marie Buisson. The entertainment was novel and charming. There are bound to be further opportunities to write about the compositions and the players. Sherry's last night. In the quarter

Mystery Surrounds Disappearance of Mrs. Henrietta Sullivan From Brooklyn Home.

The police of Brooklyn are to-day trying to solve the strange case of Mrs. Henrietta Sullivan of No. 724 Prospect Place, a young and comely woman of twenty-four, who went shopping on Jan. 2 and did not return. The same evening her mother asked the police to search for her.

At 4 c'clock the next morning the The police of Plainfield, N. J., are seeking a clue to the sender of a talcum powder box to Joseph Emil Sevigny. Sevigny is in the hospital, blind and with face badly torn. The box came throught the mail and he assumed some throught the mail and he assumed some friend had sent it as a present.

After shaving he went to use the powder. As he gave the box a shake a violent explosion followed. He was senseless when friends reached him. The box had been filled with black powder, bits of steel and sandpaper, and the police suspect a woman sent it
